VALLEY CONVOCATION MEETS A YANCEY

Feature of Session Is Dedication of New Schoolhouse for Use in Mountain Missionary Work—Large Shipments of Cattle.

[Special to The Times-Dispatch.] Winchester, Va., Oct. 27.—The main feature of the one hundred and twentieth semi-annual meeting of the Valley Convocation of the Protestant Episcopal Church, held at the Mountain Missionary Schoolhouse, was the dedication of another new schoolhouse, which is a part of the work which is being carried on in the Blue Ridge Mountain section by Rev. Josiah R. Ellis, whose missionary work has appealed strongly to practically all the members of the church in the diocese here a few days since. Rev. Mr. Ellis stated that the Yancey (or Eikon) mission now possesses church facilities at Yancey, a pastor is constantly increasing. The enrollment this year is nearly double that of a year ago. The church work in the Blue Ridge Mountain section is being carried on by Rev. Mr. Ellis in his mountain work, and rectors of other churches in the Valley and the Page Valley.

The first carload shipment of baled alfalfa ever made from Frederick County was sent this week from the farm of Harry W. Hyde, near Clearbrook, whose crops are being marketed by the growing of alfalfa in Frederick County was taken up by a few farmers several years ago on a small scale, but it has been shown to be a profitable crop by the more progressive farmers who have had large fields. The crop cut recently by Mr. Hyde was the first to be grown upon his farm, and it was seeded last year.

Agents of the United States Forestry Bureau obtained options last spring on large tracts of timber land in various counties of the Shenandoah and Page Valleys for forest reserves. The options have been surveyed recently in Page County, and have closed deals for several thousand acres of mountain land, including the Shenandoah and others. Before any land is bought the government employs a lawyer or some other competent person to examine all the records during the course of the more recent negotiations the men employed to do this work were required to trace the records back to the time when the land was first owned by the Commonwealth, or what is known as all of the "Northern Neck" of Virginia.

The work of making the final survey for the electric railway line which is to be built from Martinsburg, W. Va., to Winchester, was completed a few days ago. The work was done by the company which will at once take up the matter of asking for bids on the construction work. Franchises have already been obtained from the County of Shenandoah and Martinsburg, and bond has been given in each city by the promoters. In addition to building the line between Martinsburg and Winchester, it is the intention to construct one between Martinsburg and Hagerstown, connecting at the latter place with the Hagerstown and the Shenandoah Valley Railway Company. The route through Winchester has been so planned that a convenient connection can be made on the Berryville Pike with the line of the Shenandoah Valley Railway Company, whose charter empowers it to build and operate an electric railway between Winchester and Berryville. They have three routes each, and always in a direct line, and always in a direct line, and always in a direct line.

Former Mayor Thomas G. Hayes, of Baltimore, is to be one of the principal speakers here on the evening of the 31st of October at the annual banquet and reunion of the Golden Rule Bible class of Braddock Street Methodist Episcopal Church, Sunday School of Martinsburg, W. Va., who teaches a large class in the First Methodist Episcopal Church of that city, and who is the principal of the Shenandoah Valley Academy, of Winchester, who teaches a large Bible class in the Sunday school of Christ Protestant Episcopal Church.

At the fifth annual convention of the Frederick County Sunday School Association, held a few days ago, L. A. Adams, of Stephens City, was chosen president to succeed himself. Address were made by Dr. M. E. Church of Falls Church, president of the State Association; T. C. Diger, of Richmond, the State Secretary; and W. D. Smith, rector of Christ Episcopal Church, who spoke on "The Worth of a Boy."

In spite of the fact that large beds of limestone have been discovered in the northern suburbs of Winchester between the Baltimore and Ohio and the Shenandoah Valley Railroads, the contractors expect to have the work completed by the first of the year. The connection will be used principally for the hauling of freight, which, according to men here, will be of great convenience to shippers.

Mr. Edward B. Jacobs, one of the best known and most daring horsemen in this section of the State, whose husband is master of hounds of the Blue Ridge Hunt Club, is slowly recovering from the effects of an accident which nearly cost her her life.
